

The day an AI vanished in 90 minutes

What one government memo just revealed about the tools you build on.

01 | THE LAUNCH

A lab shipped its most powerful model on a Tuesday

Three days later, a single government directive ordered it cut off from every foreign user. The model went dark worldwide in under 90 minutes.

02 | THE TRIGGER

It was not a scandal

Engineers found one narrow way to slip past its safety checks. That was enough for the tool to be pulled from millions of people who had built nothing wrong.

03 | THE LOCKOUT

Not priced out. Locked out

For almost two weeks, anyone outside the approved list lost access. The line was no longer what you could pay. It was which passport you held.

04 | THE REVERSAL

Softened, but the point landed

Political pressure later eased the restrictions. But it was already clear: the best AI can be switched off for whole countries with one memo.

05 | THE LESSON

Access is now a political decision

The takeaway is not to fear AI. It is to notice that if your work depends on one hosted model, part of your business now lives outside your control.
